

Creative Arts

at Wave Hill

Glyndor Gallery at Wave Hill is home to a changing roster of art exhibitions that focus on a particular theme, typically nature-related. During this new program for school groups, students explore an exhibition, create their own inspired work of art and view the grounds for the source of the inspiration. To learn how these programs correspond to the NYS Blueprint for Teaching in the Arts, please visit www.wavehill.org/edu.

Grades: Pre-K through 6

Time: 10–11:30am

Max. class size: 32 students

Fee: $105

BUZZ ABOUT BEES@

Hive Culture: Captivated by the Honeybee

Contemporary artists examine the intricate life of the honeybee and its role in nature through varied perspectives and media in the fall 2011 exhibition Hive Culture: Captivated by the Honeybee. Students go outdoors to see bees and learn about their role in pollination, then explore the artistic content of the exhibition and create their own bee-related project.

FLOWER MYSTERIES @

Rediscovering the Wild Garden

Wave Hill's signature Wild Garden—which features an ever-changing show with a “planted-by-nature” effect—serves as an inspiration for new works by seven artists in this exhibition.

Students explore the use of varied media, techniques and perspectives within the exhibit, and then create their own floral interpretation.

They view the Wild Garden to explore flowers up close.

Dates: April 10–June 22
